

BURGUNDY-REPORT - October 2014

Clos de Vougeot 2011 - Blind tasted...

This tasting was a perfect showcase for the 2011 vintage. On average, the quality is good, but the weight and concentration of these wines, if not their intensity, is modest – they are more like 1er Crus from a “to cellar” vintage. They are often rather delicious in a way that young Clos de Vougeot has no right to be – at least if we are to believe the stereotype of the severe, austere Clos de Vougeot.

Wine 21 - Domaine Drouhin-Laroze

A fine, dark nose, almost textured and with a little floral action too – super. Big, round, growing intensity – indeed one of the most intense here – but to balance, it has far from the best texture. A “look at me” wine, with a super nose but only quite good palate.

Bill Nanson

www.burgundy-report.com

DOMAINE DROUHIN-LAROZE
www.drouhin-laroze.com